Leah Vukmir Endorses Julian Bradley for State Senate

Vukmir: 'Wisconsin needs more fighters like Julian'

Brookfield, Wis. — Former State Senator and U.S. Candidate Leah Vukmir endorsed grassroots conservative champion Julian Bradley for Wisconsin's 28th State Senate District on Tuesday.

"I've worked with Julian Bradley to advance the conservative cause, and I know he's a man of his word," Vukmir said. "Julian knows being a conservative isn't always easy, but he's ready to fight and stand strong for pro-life, pro-gun and law-and-order principles in the State Senate. He'll follow through on his promises to defend the unborn, preserve our Second Amendment rights, defend taxpayers, and put our community's safety before criminals. Wisconsin needs more fighters like Julian, who will keep our state prosperous and won't buckle under the pressure of liberal hysteria. I could not be more confident that Julian will get our conservative principles across the finish line in the State Senate, and I'm happy to endorse him."

"I am so thankful for Leah's support," Bradley said. "Leah knows we need more people in the State Senate who believe in limited government and who will defend our Constitution. For years, I've worked at the grassroots level, getting conservatives elected in Wisconsin. I know what it takes — and I intend to work hard to earn the voters' support."

Julian Bradley is the grassroots conservative candidate for the 28th Senate District. He formerly served as the Chairman of the La Crosse County GOP, Vice Chairman of the Third Congressional District GOP, and Chairman of the 2015 GOP State Convention.
